CITY CLERK SUBMITS EXPLANATORY REPORT ON NEW WATER RATE

In reporting the Water Rate Ordinance, elsewhere in this issue published, the City Clerk submitted to the Board the following:

The average annual receipts by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company from water rate payers are shown by the company's statements to have been been.....	$12,400.00
The average annual operating expenses and interest to have been.....	5,700.00
For 1914, from 700 services at a base rate of $1.25 per 800 cubic feet, the receipts from rate payers were....	13,657.54
Operating expenses and interest the same year were.	5,681.88
At a base rate of 70 cents per 800 cubic feet, receipts from rate payers would amount to	5,880.00

In preparing the accompanying Ordinance fixing water rates for the year commencing July 1st, 1915, I have used, by your direction, a basis rate of 70 cents per 800 cubic feet per month, that will cover operating expenses and interest and produce a considerable overplus. I have also provided against pumping for others than Tropico inhabitants at the expense of Tropico consumers, and against the collection from rate payers and consumers of the costs of maintaining and repairing the company's service system, which have been paid by Tropico rate payers, amounting to over $15,000 in the two years one and one-half months of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company's ownership and operation of the plant. I have also embodied a provision in the Ordinance to the effect that costs and expenses of improvements and facilities, etc., for the service, shall be counted as investments in the plant by the City of Tropico, and not by the operating company.

All of which, I trust, will meet with your approbation.

Respectfully submitted.

NELSON C. BURCH,
City Clerk of Tropico.

THE OLD WAR DRUM AWAKES

BY ROBERTUS LOVE

IT is standing in the corner of the littered lumber room,
And the dust upon its rawhide head is pleading for a broom.
But the old war drum is silent now; it has no voice to call.
Like a dry, decrepit veteran it leans against the wall.

But hush, hush, hush!
Don't you hear the war drum beat?
Don't you hear its rumble-rumble-rumble-rum?
Lean and listen! To your ear
Put your hand, and you may hear,
Faint and far, the rumble-rumble of the drum!

BUT a ghost of ancient Echo is the war drum's warning low
From the faroff fields of carnage, from the battles long ago,
From the gory Shiloh maelstrom, from the Chickamauga hell,
From the fierce Antietam caldron, where the flower of manhood fell.

Ah, hear, hear, hear!
Can't you feel the war drum throb?
Can't you sense its rumble-rumble-rumble-rum?
For the moment close your eyes.
It is not a mere surmise—
'Tis the real rumble-rumble of the drum!

THEY have borne it in the morning when the bugles blew the notes,
Rousing regiments to marshal and assault the cannon throats,
And the drum has mixed its rumbling with the bugle and the fife,
Calling men to make for fatherland the sacrifice of life.

Oh, list, list, list!
Don't you know the war drum's voice?
Can't you catch its rumble-rumble-rumble-rum?
Stand a little space aside.
Let the drummer beat with pride
Louder now the rumble-rumble of the drum!

YES, we hear its solemn rumbling as it leads the charging lines
In the Wilderness, at Resaca, at Fair Oaks, Seven Pines;
Hear its deep basso profundo as it halts upon the height
Peerless Pickett's launching legions in the fury of the fight.

Yes, hark, hark, hark!
'Tis the war drum's tongue awake!
Hear it voice the rumble-rumble-rumble-rum!
Doff your hat and heave a cheer!
Why, the drummer's here—he's here,
Beating out the rumble-rumble of the drum!

THUS I saw the ghostly drummer on a morn in latter May
When beyond the littered lumber room a band began to play,
And I turned me for a moment for a glance along the street
Where a thin blue line of veterans went by on weary feet.

"Ah, hush, hush, hush!"
Called the monitor within.
"Hush and hear the rumble-rumble-rumble-rum!"
Was the war drum come awake,
Or my heartbeats—did they make
All the mighty rumble-rumble of the drum?

RECEPTION IS HELD FOR PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR AND WIFE

Friday evening, May 21, will stand out in the history of the Tropico Presbyterian church as a red-letter evening. On that date the church and friends gave a splendid reception to their new pastor, Rev. O. P. Rider, and his gracious wife.

Under the direction of the Philathea girls the church parlors were beautifully decorated with ivy and baskets of red roses. The rooms never looked prettier than at this time.

The early part of the evening was spent in social conversation by the large number present, after which a splendid musical program was given.

Miss Phoebe Armstrong offered a piano solo, with marked ability, followed by Miss Allen, who sang very acceptably. Miss Dorothy Armstrong rendered in a charming manner a couple of violin solos. The misses Armstrongs are pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Becker.

Mr. Beatty brought this part of the evening's entertainment to a close by two pleasing baritone solos.

Rev. R. T. Smith, with well-chosen words, made Mr. Rider feel very welcome to Tropico.

Mr. Rider's reply was pleasing to all and caused his people to feel more than ever that the right man has been chosen as their pastor.

This reception to Mr. Rider and his wife was delayed owing to the illness of Mrs. Rider, but all are glad to know that she is able now to take some part in the church activities.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS TO HOLD CARNIVAL ON NIGHT JUNE 24

Owing to the inability of Manager Eudamiller of the Star theater to secure the picture play, "Damon and Pythias," the K. P. Carnival has been postposed until Thursday, June 24. On that evening the picture will be shown; the streets will be illuminated and decorated and there will convene a general good time. Street dancing, confettie battles, etc. The D. O. K. K. patrol and band, and also the uniform rank from Los Angeles will be here in a body to help with the big night. It is estimated that there will be several thousand K. P.'s in Tropico at this time on San Fernando Road from Central avenue to Tropico avenue.

Last Monday evening Geo. Tauxe, Robt. Damer, C. C. Hapgood, Harry Shafer, C. C. Rittenhouse and F. H. Davis were appointed to put the carnival over and they are now busy making preparations.

POULTRY ASSN. MEETS

At the regular monthly meeting of the Glendale-Tropico Poultry and Pet Stock Association many active breeders listened to two interesting speakers. Mr. Vernon Carr spoke from the viewpoint of utility stock and the best results obtainable and how to accomplish them. S. E. Berkey's discourse was on the relation of the fancy to the utility stock. The next meeting will be devoted to rabbits.

GLENDALE-LOS ANGELES BOULEVARD ASSOCIATION IS ORGANIZED NOW

At a meeting of representatives from Tropico, Glendale, Edandale and Atwater, held in the City Hall last Friday evening, a Glendale-Los Angeles Boulevard Association was formed, whose object will be to formulate a plan for a successful campaign for a direct boulevard to Los Angeles over Brand boulevard.

The following officers were appointed: President, Prof. A. M. Brooks; vice-president, F. E. Johnson; secretary, Stephen P. Vesolich; treasurer, George B. Woodberry.

A committee was appointed consisting of F. E. Johnson, Stephen P. Veselich, J. C. Wesserly, John Logan, J. W. Usilton and George B. Woodberry, to take up the matter with the city of Los Angeles.

The matter of the opening of Brand boulevard and the building of a bridge across the Los Angeles river at Ivanhoe is the means of a eliminating a long, tedious journey to Los Angeles, and will open traffic to Tropico and the San Fernando valley, and it is hoped by all right thinking people that such a change may reach a speedy and satisfactory return.

The advantages of this project will be fully outlined in our next issue accompanied by a reproduction of maps showing the benefits derived.

Two Fords came to grief on Brand boulevard at Acacia avenue last Friday morning when they bumped into each other. One machine driven by Dr. Leadsworth, 117 North Central, Glendale, was badly smashed, while the other driven by a deliveryman from the Morgan dairy, 253 East Ninth street, sustained a broken fender and radiator and bent axle; besides distributing some 60 pint bottles of milk around on the pavement. Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

MEMORIAL DAY

By William C. Anderson

This Memorial Day should be the most glorious Memorial Day we have observed. We can this day regard our heroes with admiration. No thoughts of wars spent upon women and little children mars this coming Memorial Day.

No remembrances come to mind of conflicts against helpless foes; no recollections of hell-diving submarines rising from the blue depts to attack fishing boats and passenger craft; no odors still of death gases dropped from the sky in the stillness of the night upon the homes of non-combatants, and no crosses shelled from holy things to shame us on this Memorial Day. We can pay tribute to the veterans of those wars; mourn the dead heroes and let awaken in our memory glorious thoughts of men who fought like soldiers, died like soldiers, and, when the war was ended, joined hands like men and went into the mills, fields, and factories to toil for the uplift of the Nation; to set it upon the concrete of industry and integrity.

No single thought detracts from the heroism of those who marched in determined gray lines toward the North, nor from the same heroism of those who marched courageously toward the South.

We can only think of real heroes who fought with muzzle-loaded muskets and sharp steel and battled openly, not against innocence, but against men who were soldiers armed, prepared and worthy of contest.

No nation ever will or can observe a day that found a war ended with the honors of that war and the heroism equally divided.

In view of the present European conflict, where the innocent suffer more than the active soldiers; where no woman or child is safe in their own country; no person safe on the high seas; no ethics of war observed, our Memorial Day will emphasize the spirit of American fairness.

Our veterans of the wars will be fed and clothed, sheltered and kept warm; the graves of the dead will be made green and flowered. It is our way of acknowledging heroism. Iron things pinned on the breasts of men and kisses placed upon the cheeks of soldiers for acts of violence against women and children matches not with a respect shown men who fought like men, died like men, and survived like men.

The Memorial Day will come and pass with no regrets because of cowardly acts performed on the fields of Gettysburg, Appomattox, Chattanooga and others. No memories of innocent suffering in the wake of the marches of Lee, Sherman, Butler, Pemberton, and other soldiers.

The memory of millions of patriots for their dead heroes is better than the iron things of kings and the kisses of potentates on the cheeks of men for savagery and madness.

It is the spirit of American fairness that makes the day live year after year; it is the spirit of American appreciation that keeps our veterans clothed and sheltered and our dead heroes remembered and honored.

The Return of the Southern Flags.

When it was first proposed to return to the southern states the Confederate flags which had been captured in the battles of the civil war the proposition met with a storm of protest. In 1905 the flags were returned, Massachusetts being the first to act, though it had been loudest in denunciation when the proposal was advocated by Sumner.

In the following year the commander in chief of the G. A. R., James Tanner, asked in his Memorial day order that the graves of the soldiers of both armies should be decorated without discrimination, saying, "The old flag has been rebaptized since 1865 with the blood of the north and the south alike, and the ship of state is securely anchored for all time."

But answer duty's call and fight!"

An Echo of the Civil War.

A resolution was adopted recently by the Vermont legislature commending Mrs. Bettie Van Metre of Berryville, Va., for her care of Lieutenant Bedell of Westfield, Vt., in the civil war.

Lieutenant Bedell's leg was broken by a shell in a battle at Opequon, Va., and he was left behind by his regiment. He was picked up unconscious and carried to the home of a family whose southern sympathies were so strong that he was left in an attic room for three days without proper care until Mrs. Van Metre, then a girl of twenty years, heard of his condition and insisted on acting as nurse. She watched over him, regardless of the criticisms of her friends, until he was able to be moved back to his home.

First Memorial Day

It Was Observed In May, 1865, In Charleston, S. C.

A DESCRIPTION of the first Memorial day was found among the reminiscences of the founder of the day, Mrs. Mary Cotton Redpath, who died in 1914 at her home in Malden, Mass., at the age of ninety. Mrs. Redpath was in Charleston, S. C., at the time with her husband, who was on General Sherman's staff. She was troubled by the lack of attention given to the decent burial of Union soldiers.

"Our men," she wrote, "had been buried as they died from exposure or disease in the very troughs they had burrowed for themselves in the ground as protection against the weather. The majority of these graves were unmarked and the field was uninclosed. My husband and myself and our friends formed a committee for consideration of the matter, and a memorial addressed to the loyal people of South Carolina was issued, calling upon every one in the state to aid in the erection of a monument and a suitable fence to protect it and to surround the place for burial. Response was promptly and generously made by freedmen and others, and in May, 1865, a great memorial service was held in Zion's church.

"At its close, escorted by a detachment of the regiment which under General Hatch occupied the citadel of Charleston and accompanied by a handful of whites and a large host of negroes, we proceeded to the race course. On the previous day the colored people had gathered great quantities of spring flowers, which they carried to decorate the graves. Mr. Redpath and I rode in an open carriage with General Hatch and another member of the committee. The enthusiasm was intense. When the procession formed freedmen removed the horses from the carriage and dragged it out to the cemetery. The people surged around us, waving their flowers and chanting the weird, stirring songs of their race. When we reached the burial ground the graves of the soldiers were heaped with myrtle, the small yellow rose called cloth of gold and other southern blossoms. Our return was made at night, by moonlight, under avenues of cypress trees hung with gray moss, the negroes as they marched still singing their poignantly sad or strangely exulting hymns."

Mrs. Redpath was closely connected with the civil war, and her home in Malden was one of the northern stations of the "underground railway" by which slaves were sent to Canada and freedom.

THE DAY OF MEMORY.

Bring the flowers, fair and sweet;
Follow close the marching feet
Of the veterans who go,
With their loyal hearts aglow
With the love of men for men,
To their comrades' grave again.

Bring the blossoms, sweet and fair;
Lay them down with love and care
Where the little banners wave
O'er each soldier's sacred grave;
Say a word of grace and prayer
For the hero buried there.

Listen while the chaplain reads
Office for the dead and deeds
Are recounted once again
Of the war stormed hill and plain;
Listen while is called the roll—
Death has taken heavy toll.

Bring the little ones to see
And to listen eagerly;
Dirge and volley, prayer and speech,
Deep into their hearts will reach;
They the rites must carry on
When the veterans all are gone.
